Sometimes, even a little drop can make a big splash. That's certainly the case with the special poker tournament called the Little One for One Drop, which is the discounted version of the famed million-dollar buy-in Big One for One Drop. Both of these special charity-linked gold bracelet tournaments, created by the WSOP with the enthusiastic support of Cirque du Soleil founder Guy Laliberte raise lots of money for clean water in the developing world. In just three years, tens of millions of dollars have been raised – all because of the generous donations made by poker players and Caesars Entertainment, which runs the event rake-free, adding significantly more money to the One Drop Foundation.

This year's so-called "Little One" was hardly small. In fact, it was huge – as in 4,496 entries. This was the final tournament completed prior to the start of the 2014 WSOP Main Event Championship. The $1,111 buy-in tournament (of which $111 from each entry went directly to the charity) officially known as the Little One for One Drop No-Limit Hold'em tournament was played over a five-day period, and concluded on a Sunday night at the Rio in Las Vegas, concurrent to the start of the Main Event.

Igor Dubinskyy, from the Ukraine, topped the huge field and won first place. He also collected $637,539 in prize money, plus his first gold bracelet, the game's most coveted prize.
