J.W. LORETT TAKES DOWN THE MONSTER STACK

Retired veteran and local legend wins the Monster Stack for biggest career cash

Supported by a massive rail behind him, J.W. Lorette took down the $365 Monster Stack in his hometown in Tulsa, Oklahoma. This is Lorette's biggest score worth $27,853, along with his first ever Circuit ring. "It feels great. I really started playing poker when the Hard Rock opened (2009). Ever since, I have never left. Except to go to Choctaw and some other big tournaments."

Lorette has made many final tables in his time but he said to a couple of other players: "This is the hardest final table I've ever been on." He came in to the final table with one of the top stacks and managed to hold on. "It was very tough. I was down and then back up, down and then back up again. It was done on a lot of instinct. I've always said, any two cards can win" exclaimed a smiling Lorette.
