ASKIA INGRAM WINS THE BLACK CHIP BOUNTY EVENT

Poker pro from Springfield wins his first Circuit ring in Tulsa

A proud Askia Ingram has taken down the Black Chip Bounty event for $6,998 and his very first ring. He defeated a tough competitor in Will Berry and said, "he's a beast, man." Ingram came in to heads up play down six-to-one in chips and clawed his way back. "I've been searching for a win for a while. I used to watch all these guys on TV and figured I could do it too" said a confident Ingram.

When talking about his strategy, Ingram said he spoke with a good friend and player about it. "I talked to one of my friends, kind of pow-wow chatted with him. Hand ranges and stuff. I do very well in tournaments. The other cashes were bigger, but this means the most because it's a ring" explained Ingram. He mostly plays cash games, but is in the hunt for more points and more rings.
