RUSS SALZER ADDS GOLD RING TO WSOP RÉSUMÉ

West-coast card player takes down double stack turbo event at Horseshoe Southern Indiana.

Russ Salzer picked up his first World Series of Poker title at the Horseshoe Southern Indian Circuit stop after a long-standing career in the world of cards. The 59-year-old poker player defeated 235 entrants in Event #3: $400 No-Limit Hold'em Double Stack Turbo to win his first Circuit gold ring.

“The rings a little tight, but I feel a little looser since I won,” Salzer said with a laugh, following his triumph.

Along with the gold ring, Salzer was also awarded 50 Casino Championship points and $19,388 for the win. He now lays claim to 21 WSOP cashes, worth just over $670,000. Salzer’s largest and most prestigious score to date came in the 2005 WSOP Main Event World Championship where he finished 29th out of 5,619 players, banking $274,090.

Majority of Salzer’s cashes stem from the annual WSOP in Las Vegas, where he lived and played cards for 35 years. It was a simple invitation from a friend and promise of a free hotel room that brought Salzer out to Elizabeth, Indiana for a WSOPC.

From there, the wily vet jumped into Event #3 and claimed gold. With 50 points under his belt now, Salzer is inclined to stick it out for the rest of the series to take a run at the Casino Championship.
