JAVIER ZARCO CLAIMS FIRST RING IN HIGH ROLLER

After several close calls, Zarco finally seals the deal to claim his WSOPC gold.

The World Series of Poker Horseshoe Hammond $2,200 High Roller is in the books and after two full days of play, Javier Zarco came out on top as the champion.

Zarco defeated an extremely tough field of 132 entries to take him $70,93 and his first World Series of Poker Circuit gold ring.

He is no stranger to tournament play, having over $2,400,000 in poker earnings, and almost winning his first WSOP Bracelet in the 2015 $1,500 Millionaire Maker when he finished 2ND for $791,690.

"It feels amazing, I won a Venetian Deepstack once but I finally won a ring after finishing second four times in Main Events," Said Zarco with excitement after defeating WSOP Bracelet winner and two-time WSOP Circuit ring leader Michael Wang heads up.

"It honestly just went my way, doubling up the first hand" he explained.

He does travel around to play poker most of the time with only a few Circuit stops along the way.

"I mostly just play here, I like this one, and the ones in Florida."

Zarco says he plans to play the Montreal World Poker Tour next before heading back to where he lives in London, England.
