BRYCE COX WINS BOUNTY EVENT FOR HIS 1ST RING

42 year-old from Arizona books his biggest cash and first tournament win for $9,967

Bryce Cox is the latest winner at Planet Hollywood in Event #3: $400 No-Limit Hold'em Bounty for $9,967 and a pocket full of bounties. This is the Seattle native's biggest career cash and first ever tournament win. "For me it's more about the ring than it is about the money. I've learned in my life that money comes and goes. It feels good. It feels really, really good."

The 42 year-old now lives in Arizona with his wife, dog and two cats after leaving his business in Seattle to start fresh. "It's been a frickin' struggle for two years. In the last two months of playing poker I ran so good. I just could feel like this was literally destiny," said an emotional Cox. He has also been sober for 11 years now and hasn't looked back. "When I first got sober I was living in an abandoned house shooting heroine. I was down in the absolute gutter. I got into AA, worked the twelve steps. I sponsor guys, I give back, I help people. My life is just so full today because of that. God's purpose is for me to help people."

With tears in his eyes, Cox explained: "I got shot when I was 18. I had a bullet run my shoulder and stop at my jaw. The surgeon that did the tracheostomy on my throat was like, 'This is a surgery that I'll do once in my career'. A lot of things had to line up in order for me to be here."

"I met my best friend because of poker. I got really close to this group of friends, and if it wasn't for that my life would not be the same," said Cox.
