TAL AVIVI CLINCHES SECOND RING IN LAS VEGAS

High stakes cash game player wins two rings in his first year of playing tournaments

Tal Avivi has taken down Event #6: $400 No-Limit Hold'em 6-Handed for $17,968 after topping a field of 230 entries. This is his second career World Series of Poker Circuit ring and his biggest live tournament cash. "Wow, it's amazing. I'm not a tournament player, I started this year. I always play cash and usually mixed games. I don't like Texas Hold'em much, but last year I thought that the glory comes from the tournaments and I tried to adapt. So far so good. I hope for the bracelet next year."

Avivi has been playing cash games for several years and only decided to jump into the tournament scene this year. He's been working on his game and it's been paying off. "I think the fundamentals are there, and I'm an aggressive player. I just need to work on patience, mental game. Usually it's not a problem in mixed games because it's fixed. There's no all-in click. I'm happy with my results - I'm running deep."

"I'm the owner of some hotels in Peru, and restaurants. But poker is my passion since I was a kid. In Lima I also play poker - high stakes cash games. And online I play mixed games too," explained Avivi.
